

Some further ideas for language scenarios to present are:

Unit 17

A new student arrives in your school. You have been given the task of showing the student around. Direct the student to places he or she needs to know how to find. The new student responds to the directions and also asks where places are located.

Units 14 and 19

You give a talk at school about a holiday you are planning. Describe your plans and your hopes for the weather.

You could vary this talk by talking about a holiday you have just returned from. This time, use the past tense to talk about where you went, what you did, what the weather was like, and so on.

Units 15 and 16

You and some other students are shopping in a mall. Comment on the clothes as you pass by the displays in the shop windows. Discuss what you want to buy.

Units 11 and 17

Your family pet has gone missing and was last seen in the school grounds. With your friends, make a plan for searching for your pet by directing them where to look for it. Include a description of your pet.

Units 13 and 19

You and your friend are talking when a third friend arrives and asks whether the two of you can come to his or her birthday party. Give appropriate, and considerate, responses.

Units 12 and 19

You and your family are on holiday at Christmas time. You are talking about your holidays, what you like and dislike doing, how you are feeling, and so on.

Remember that you are free to combine language from other units as you consider appropriate.
